Strict Censorship Hides News of the Border Excitement

Terror Reigns Along Isolated Border Districts---Texas Governor and General Funston Confer

STATE TROOPS MAY YET BE CALLED OUT

(By United Press)

Brownsville, August 13—Strict censorship was in effect here today and as a result little official news relative to border disturbances was obtained. Sheriffs, peace officers and armed officials were equally reticent. Reports had it that thirty bandits were killed in one fight, but investigation proved the story probably without foundation.

Bandits are working to the west and San Antonio dispatches declared that General Funston will call for more troops if the area is extended. Governor Ferguson, Congressman Garner, and other political leaders are in conference at Rockport. It is understood that they favor calling out state troops. Citizens are still terror stricken. The disturbances of the last twenty four hours have added little to the seriousness of the situation.

Pleads Guiltless

Washington, August 13.—General Carranza's military commander at Matamoras has notified General Funston that he can account for every one of his troops since the border trouble began, the Carranza agency announced today, and said he knows that not one has visited the United States. Carranza also ordered military cooperation with General Funston to suppress disorder on both sides of the international line.

VILLA CHARGED WITH THE MURDER OF HIS AVIATOR

Young American Reported Killed by Villa When Pay is Demanded

(By United Press)

New York, Aug. 13'—"Micky" McGuire, an American aviator with Gen. Villa, who was reported killed in a fall of 5,000 feet, was murdered by Villa according to a story of William Mattery, McGuire's partner, published in the Times today. Mattery stated that he and McGuire were promised $500 a week and when they insisted on payment Villa laughed at them. McGuire quit and started to his machine, but fell dead with twenty rifle shots in his body. Mattery was held as a spy, but escaped. Certain that Mattery would die, Villa wired that McGuire was killed in a fall.

REPLY TO AUSTRIA IS ON WAY TO VIENNA

U. S. Upholds Right to Ship Arms to Belligerents

(By United Press)

Washington, August 13.— The American reply to the Austrian protest against export of arms to the allies as a violation of the "spirit" of neutrality was cabled to Ambassador Penfield at Vienna last night. The entire reply will reach Penfield by Sunday and will be delivered to the Austrian foreign office on Monday. It is known to uphold the American right to export arms to any belligerent.

STATE'S ATTORNEY MAKES BROAD RULE ON THE LABOR LAW

Interpretation of the Law Is Helpful to Many Employers of Women in the State

Attorney Says State Will be Satisfied With Morally Just Agreement Between Employer and Employee, In Reply to Bell Company's Inquiry.

(By United Press)

Harrisburg, August 13.—The state of Pennsylvania will be satisfied with any morally just arrangement between employer and employee that is in accord with the spirit if not the letter of the female labor law according to a sweeping opinion handed down by attorney Brown today.

His interpretation was made on request of commissioner of labor Jackson who had been asked by the Bell Telephone company to learn whether the Bell Telephone Company's schedule plan to give female operators the maximum number of Sundays off and still retain female operators for Sunday work would be legal.

The opinion stated that it would, provided that the girls should be given another day in the week off and if other stipulations of the law were adhered to

WELL-KNOW EYE SPECIALISTS TO OPEN BRANCH OFFICE

Woodward & McPherson. the druggists of Clearfield have completed arrangements with one of the best known optical concerns in the state to open a branch office at their drug store starting Monday, August 16 for one week.

This firm Rubin & Rubin are Harrisburg's leading eye specialists and have over forty-two branch offices in drug and department store all over the state. They examine eyes scientifically and fit glasses properly. It is their intention of coming to Clearfield three times a year, the same as all their other places. YOU KNOW YOUR BUSINESS

But where do you charge the dead expense of "hold-ups" which all merchants suffer? To advertising? Guess again. It is not advertising, and if your advertising account is charged with the load, you are not playing square with yourself or the legitimate advertising mediums which make a bid for your business. Open an account for charity, experience, friendship, or whatever this expense should be charged to and relieve advertising of one of its most hurtful burdens.

BORO GIVES PARK AND LOT AT RIVER TO SCHOOL BOARD

Specify Conditions For Roadway And Wish Directors to Record Desire for Wall

Whitmer Property Granted to School to Make Grounds of it if Disposed—Estimtae on Abutment for River Front Persented by Borough Engineer.

At a joint meeting of the council and the school board last evening the matter of the granting of the borough land along the river front at the Reed lots was definitely settled. The borough gives the land to the school board with the provisions that a road can be opened up along the river through the land at any time that it may be necessary, and also express the desire that the present board make a record that it is the sense of all the members of the council that a wall should be built along the property facing the river at some future time, and that it is the wish of the present board that that wall be built when financial difficulties are overcome.

The borough also grants to the school board that piece of land which is known at Whitmer park if the school board desires to take it and make it a part of the school grounds. Witmer park was dedicated to the public use in 1804 by Abraham Whitmer when the town was laid out by a commission.

In reference to the building of the proposed wall along the river front a report from the borough engineer was heard by the two boards last night. To build a wall along the entire front from the place where the present wall ends would cost approximately $100,000 and to build the 180 feet of wall which would be on the borough land which was granted to the school would cost, according to the engineer's figure approximately $4000. It is doubtful in the opinion of both bodies if such a wall will be built within the near future.

GREAT FAREWELL TO 17 ITALIANS OFF FOR FRONT

Party With Banjoes and Guitars Sing Farewell Songs to Loved Ones--Stirring Battle Songs

Will Join 83 More at Altoona and Sail on Steamer Duca di Agosta---Bunch Worker at Sewer Pipe Plant and No. 3 Brick Yards.

More Italians left this morning for the battle front in their mother country. There were seventeen in the bunch that left on the 8:14 morning train. They will be joined at Altoona, where they go first to get their credentials, by 83 more Italians from other parts of the state.

The party was cheered and waved goodbye to by a large gathering of friends and relatives. The Italians jumped into the cars and opened the windows and then with their guitars and mandolins played and sang farewell songs to their relatives and their sweethearts.

Some of the music sounded plaintive, some melancholy, some sad, but mingled with the sorrowful tunes was the stirring twang of a banjo in some memorable battle song, or the drowsey note of a guitar in some love-laden melody. It was a grand farewell.

The party will sail on the steamship Duca di Agosto. They were Salvodori Vozzola, Frank Zitarelli, Antoni Prestilli, Mario Mottolo, Antonio Spingola, Joseph Molica, Jovanni Lastarza, Daniel Tostarzi, Frank Molica, Joseph Alexander ,Mike Castellucci, Philip Accordini, adn five others. They were formerly employeed at the sewer pipe works or the extra shift and at No. 3 brick yard.

SEVEN PENSY TRACK MEN KILLED THIS A. M.

Passenger Train Demolishes Hand Car on Main Line

(By United Press)

IMMENSE CROWDS FROM CLEARFIELD LINE AT LAKEMONT

Large Special Train Leaving In Morning Packed Before Reaching Woodland

23 Coaches Used in Bringing Throngs Back in Evening—Two Specials of Nine Coaches Each Beside Regular Train

Although yesterday was an unfavorable day for an excursion the people from Clearfield and vicinity did not seem to care about the bad weather as the excursion train which ran to Lakemont along the Clearfield line had more than it could carry.

The excursion train started from Grampian yesterday morning with enough cars to comfortably accomodate the crowd that they expected would go on the excursion, with the intentions of picking up extra coaches along the way as they were needed, but when the train stopped at the depot in Clearfield they found that they only had a sample of the train that would be necessary to accomodate the crowd that was already present.

When the excursion train reached Woodland it was impossible for any more passengers to be taken on as the train has been crowded to its full capacity between that place and Grampian. The regular morning passenger bound for Tyrone was then converted into an excursion train to pick up the rest of th eexcursionists from Woodland to Tyrone.

In the evening it required two special trains the first one of which was composed of nine coaches and two engines and the second of ten coaches and two engines to accomodate the crowds returning, in addition to the regular train which contained four coaches. All the returning trains arrived in Clearfield between 10:30 and 11:15 o'clock.

Explosion Laid at Door of Opponent To Export of Arms

Recent Blowing Up of Westinghouse Plant at Turtle Creek Said to Be Work of a Fanatic

DETROIT MAN CONVICTED OF DYNAMITING

(By United Press)

Pittsburg, August 13.—Written evidence that the explosion at the Turtle Creek plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company which killed two men and injured several others may have been caused by a person or persons opposed to the manufacture of munitions for the allies, was placed in the hands of county officers today by the Pittsburg Press.

It was in the form of a letter to the Press written several days ago and signed, "Yours truly, Guess it." The letter stated that the plant would be blown up if the manufacture of munitions for shipment abroad continued. W. G. Taylor, manager at the works where the explosion occurred, admitted that it has been so far impossible to account for the escape of gas from the annealing furnace which blew up. He intimated that investigations were being made to find out if the gas was purposely put into the furnace.

Windsor, Ont., William Lefler, Detroit, convicted of complicity in the dynamiting of a large overall plant in Walkerville, a suburb, was today sentenced by Judge Dromgole to serve ten years in the Kingston penitentiary. Lefler broke down completely while making his statement to the court just before sentence was pronounced. Tearfully he called on God as witness that he was guilty of no wrong intent and that he had merely been a dupe of Albert Kaiser, a wealthy German.

REUNION OF DAVIS FAMILY HELD AT THE KNOB FA[illegible]

Six of Seven Living [illegible] And 17 of 23 [illegible] Children Present

Old-Fashioned Picnic Dinner Held —Amused With Old-Time Games, Singing, Baseball, Etc.—Children for Health of Old Folks.

The second annual reunion of the Davis family was held at the [illegible] farm, home of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Davis, on August 11. Six of the seven living children were present: [illegible] and E. C. of Clearfield; H. C. Ramey; N. T. of St. Marys; [illegible] B. Albert, of Woodland; and V. E. [illegible] lives on the homestead. [illegible] of the twenty-three grandchildren were present and six of the nine great grandchildren. In the past year there have been no deaths in the family, two births. Between the oldest and the youngest member of the family there is a period of more than seventy-seven years. Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] have been married fifty-four years next September, and have lived on the farm all their lives.

The farm is situated on the [illegible] which is the highest point in this section of the country, and from which a remarkable view of the surrounding country can be had.

A real good old-fashioned picnic dinner of spring chicken, ice cream, cheese, home-cured ham, and a host of other farm products was served.

After the dinner several entertainments, such as old-time games, singing, recitations, quoits and baseball were indulged in until late in the afternoon, when the festivities came to a close and the boys and girls went back to their tasks richer by a day of good fellowship and wishing that the old folks would be spared to welcome them back home for many a year to come.

A Stroll With Margarette Mason And Some Comments on Fashions

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for the United Press)

Betty bought a box of beads
A bead trimmed frock to try
She now has lots of beads on hand
Likewise a beady eye.

New York, Aug. 13.—The latest fashionable bag of tricks is a bag of beads. Marie Lanvin is the Parisian couturiere who has spilled the beads and scattered them recklessly all over the fall frocks, frills and furbelows. Think what a beautiful consistency it only beer had been the designer to put the bead on. But Marie beat him to the bead and now everything is headed to beat the band the beaded band of course, which has been with us for many seasons.

In the windows of two of the smartest hat shops on Fifth avenue every single one of the new Fall models had a garnishment of beads as its sole adornment. The big broad flat black velvet shapes have a flat bead trimming either set on or else beaded right on the hat surface itself. In the latter class is a sprawling sort of an octopus design done in a single row of steel beads. Another has a tiny humming bird of feathers perched on a nest shaped medallion or varigated bead eggs. Just as a suggestion except this eggy idea it seems to me a cunning little gold fish nesting on a bunch of bead roe could be a heap more realistic and effectively reproduced in beadwork. Be that as it may single flat blossoms of beadwork cling limpet-like to the broad black velvet brims. On the jaunty little turban shapes bristling batons of beads stick out like the quills upon fretful porcupine. Beaded tassels also dangle dangerously, promising that many an eye this Fall though not now beady will be beaded.

The beadwork designs on hte Fall suits and gowns are wonderfully alluring. Floral and conventional motifs are picked out in the most exquisite of beaded colorings and just a touch is used on a girule, a sleeve or a bodice with an effective and telling artistry. On many of the pastel tinted frocks that promise to lead the mode this Autumn a vivid splash of colorful beadwork, a single glowing scarlet flower, an orange or emerald fruit at the shoulder, the throat or the waist line adds just the needful beadful touch.

Beaded bags are in again with a vengeance not the silk bags with bead trimmings that have dangled from all the best arms this summer but the real old fashioned all-over beaded bags with their quaint pink and yellow garlands on bright green and blue back grounds. Black beaded designs on gold and vice versa play a big part in the present day old-fashioned bead bags and black and green is another smart combination.

Apropos of the bag subject quite the baggiest bags to brag of are the new ruffled silk bags that are quite as befrilled and beflounced as are the skirts of the moment. They are of black faille, moire or taffeta. They fasten with silver clasps and hang on plain wrist straps of the silk. Below the chased silver clasp, however, their chaste simplicity ends in a frivolous fall of flounces two and three tiers deep. Some of the ruffles are pleted, some shirred, and some corded but one and all they boast such a bouffant appearance as to make ever a full purse even though it be empty.

Though you have an empty purse and an empty pate still you need not despair to stop your empty pate you can flaunt one of the adorable between season hats of white plush. With it's soft floppy plush brim and its huge Alabastian bow of white silk as a trimming it looks for all the world like a big froth of whipped cream on a peach. It is the sartorial white hope of the moment and has knocked out its fragile tulle and chiffon rivals in the first round. Just push your head into a plush hat and you are bound to be in soft for the rest of the season.

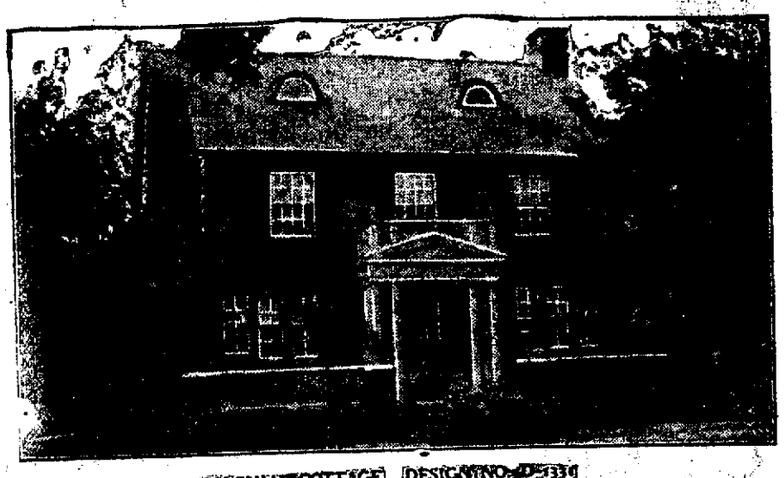
Selected by Walter J. Keith, Architect



COLONIAL COTTAGE DESIGN NO. D-1331

The illustration above has been selected as an artistic example of a modernized Dutch Colonial Cottage. The fresh white of the delicately detailed entrance and the paling of the uncovered porch to either side produce an effective contrast against the warm tones of the shingled side walls. Flowers, in the tubs surmounting the brick porch posts, furnish another bit of contrast and further add to the air of hospitality and refinement of which one is conscious on approaching this delightful home.

Below are suggested floor plans in harmony with such an elevation. All modern requirements are provided for and the rooms are of generous size. The reception hall will make a most hospitable entry with the broad stairway ascending at the rear and the glass doors opening into adjoining living and dining rooms. A door at the rear gives direct access to the kitchen and a small closet at the side is convenient for storm coats and umbrellas. The kitchen has service way to the dining room through a commodious pantry, and refrigerator space is provided in the rear entry. A rear stair, under which is a roomy pot closet, leads to the landing on the main flight. The living room, the full depth of house, is particularly attractive. A cheery fireplace is built in at the side, and cozy seats recessed at either end add considerable interest to the room.

The chambers on the second floor are of good proportions and provided with generous closet room. Good storage space is had in the attic reached through a scuttle in the half ceiling.

The cost of this charming home is estimated at $3,200, exclusive of heating, plumbing, electric work, and decorations. Price of plans and specifications, $30.

RUSSEL KELLY

New York Boy in Foreign Legion Writes of Europe Battlefields

New York August 13.—When Russel Kelly, 22 year old son of a New York attorney and for a while a student at the Virginia Military Academy got the war fever last fall, he took a job on a cattle boat, worked his way to Bordeaux and enlisted in the famous French Foreign legion.

In recent letters home he tells of taking part in the terrific fighting at La Targette, near Souchez and not far from the famous Labyrinth. His company was badly cut up, but he escaped with a bad bruise on the forehead coused by the vacuum of a great shell which passed a few inches from his head.

Under date of May 29, he writes: "After our attack of May 9-10 we went to the rear about ten miles from the frant, and were reorganized. The general reviewed us and distributed five, military medals. . . .

"We advance by sections: When the order comes we jump up, and carrying a dirt sack in front of us as a shield run about 10 feet, and it's about Ty Cobb sliding into 2nd base. It isn't a circumstance to the way we hit the grit, and what a strain on the nerves, waiting for our turn to advance again, fellows all around being hit. In a couple of cases I have seen men lifted from the ground so full were they hit . . . ."

Mr. Keily then decribes trench digging in which his regiment worked every night fro msix p. m. until 6 a. m. walking nine miles to the front and nine miles back again after finishing the digging.

"There is not much left of this regiment since May 9; the company at present has fiftyfive men out of a full company of 250.

"We are all in the best of health and getting plenty to eat. We are unanimous in wishing for the war to end soon. Take it from me, those who clamor for war the most in the States are those who know nothing about it. War is an asstine waste, and I take off my hat to Wilson and his levelheadedness."

TRAPSHOOTING OLD SPORT

English Live Bird Shooting Prototype of American Game.

By Albert P. Taylor.

As far back as 1793 the Sporting Magazine, of London, England, mentioned pigeon-shooting, which was the forerunner of modern trapshooting, and it was in England that trapshooting first became a recognized sport. However, considerable difference exists between the sport in its infant stages and the present.

Englishmen wanted to get in form for the contest now on with the team across the channel, so they started trapshooting. At that time live birds were used—the blue rock pigeon—and not our river slit and tar "pigeon." Likewise the trap of those days was quite different from the ones Henderson, Richardson, Lyon, Newcomb and others are in the habit of facing. It consisted of a box 8x12 inches, sunk level with the ground, having a sliding lid, which was pulled off the box by means of a string running back to the trapper. Of course the perriwigged gentlemen of that early day with their flintlocks couldn't do much with our "humdingers," but nevertheless we have them to thank for actually starting this great sport.

The first attempt at trapshooting in this country took place in Cincinnati in 1831. Wild pigeons served as targets until the 90 and 95 per cent class became so large they were forced to substitute quail. You "gun bugs" of today, think of shooting at quail with a muzzle-loader!

It is impossible to determine just when inanimate targets came into use. The earliest account on record is that of shooting at glass balls down at Boston, in 1866. The trap used was an imported affair from England and far from satisfactory, so an American got busy and made a trap that would send these glass orbs through space in a more Yankeelike manner. Thereafter, for twenty years, the glass industry was overwhelmed and "barefoot Johnny" steered clear of trapshooting grounds.

Improvements of balls and traps were produced in considerable numbers until 1880, when it came due for Cincinnati to again figure in the formative stages of "The Sport Alluring." This time to serve as the home of George Ligowsky, who invented real clay pigeons and a trap to spring them, of which our modern "saucers" and traps are the lineal descendants. The subsequent history of this fascinating sport, with its thousands of devotees all over our own land and in foreign countries (though in the latter, alas, they are reverting to primitive targets), is being recorded in the columns of the sporting pages of the press.

WHY SHOOTING APPEALS

The Real Man is a Boy at Heart

To most questions there is a general or popular answer that is good enough for the most of us. Assuming it to be true, no valuable purpose could be served by going into a highbrow analysis of the psychology of trapshooting with theories about a hunting instinct," a "destructive instinct" and what not.

The general answer to the question "why does trapshooting appeal?" is double-barreled and is based on fact rather than theories—every red-blooded American likes a gun, and he would rather play a game than watch others play it.

The first section of this answer is proved by the part the gun has played in every epoch of our national life from pioneer days to now. To digress for a moment—and while maintaining a position of strict neutrality—it is safe to say that the wholesome respect which Europe has for our ability to shoot straight, as proved on several occasions, has been a big element in our not becoming involved in the present unpleasantness.

That the gun's hold on us is greater than ever is shown by the fact that there are more than 10,000,000 shotguns in the United States, to say nothing of rifles, revolvers, pistols and automatics.

The second part of the answer is proved by the tremendous growth of outdoor sports in general and trapshooting in particular. During 1914 more than one thousand new trapshooting clubs sprung up, while the membership of clubs already in existence increased about 50 per cent. on the average.

As to the fascination of trapshooting—where is the boy who will not take a pot shot with stone, snow ball, toy gun, sling shot or spitball pipe at a moving object? And the real man—the fellow who loves the great outdoors—is very much of a boy at heart when he can slip away from business for a half day.

It is this "boy" in the man that makes irresistible the desire to blaze away at the little saucer-shaped discs, sprung from the traps at a speed that tantalizes the shooter who does not think and act like the proverbial "greased lightning."

To sum up, trapshooting includes all the elements that go to make up the ideal American sport, being a game for all ages and both sexes; it is competitive; it depends in the greater degree on skill, yet has breaks of luck; it provides both exercise and recreation; it is clean, fair and square and while a [illegible] for gentlemen, using the term in its broad sense, it is democratic in the greatest degree.

Strict Censorship Hides News of the Border Excitement

Terror Reigns Along Isolated Border Districts---Texas Governor and General Funston Confer

STATE TROOPS MAY YET BE CALLED OUT

(By United Press)

Brownsville, August 13—Strict censorship was in effect here today and as a result little official news relative to border disturbances was obtained. Sheriffs, peace officers and armed officials were equally reticent. Reports had it that thirty bandits were killed in one fight, but investigation proved the story probably without foundation.

Bandits are working to the west and San Antonio dispatches declared that General Funston will call for more troops if the area is extended. Governor Ferguson, Congressman Garner, and other political leaders are in conference at Rockport. It is understood that they favor calling out state troops. Citizens are still terror stricken. The disturbances of the last twenty four hours have added little to the seriousness of the situation.

Pleads Guiltless

Washington, August 13.—General Carranza's military commander at Matamoras has notified General Funston that he can account for every one of his troops since the border trouble began, the Carranza agency announced today, and said he knows that not one has visited the United States. Carranza also ordered military cooperation with General Funston to suppress disorder on both sides of the international line.

VILLA CHARGED WITH THE MURDER OF HIS AVIATOR

Young American Reported Killed by Villa and Pay is Demanded

(By United Press)

New York, Aug. 13'—"Micky" McGuire, an American aviator with Gen. Villa, who was reported killed in a fall of 5,000 feet, was murdered by Villa according to a story of William Mattery, McGuire's partner, published in the Times today. Mattery stated that he and McGuire were promised $500 a week and when they insisted on payment Villa laughed at them. McGuire quit and started to his machine, but fell dead with twenty rifle shots in his body. Mattery was held as a spy, but escaped. Certain that Mattery would die, Villa wired that McGuire was killed in a fall.

REPLY TO AUSTRIA IS ON WAY TO VIENNA

U. S. Upholds Right to Ship Arms to Belligerents

(By United Press)

Washington, August 13.— The American reply to the Austrian protest against export of arms to the allies as a violation of the "spirit" of neutrality was cabled to Ambassador Penfield at Vienna last night. The entire reply will reach Penfield by Sunday and will be delivered to the Austrian foreign office on Monday. It is known to uphold the American right to export arms to any belligerent.

STATE'S ATTORNEY MAKES BROAD RULE ON THE LABOR LAW

Interpretation of the Law Is Helpful to Many Employers of Women in the State

Attorney Says State Will be Satisfied With Morally Just Agreement Between Employer and Employee, In Reply to Bell Company's Inquiry.

(By United Press)

Harrisburg, August 13.—The state of Pennsylvania will be satisfied with any morally just arrangement between employer and employee that is in accord with the spirit if not the letter of the female labor law according to a sweeping opinion handed down by attorney Brown today.

His interpretation was made on request of commissioner of labor Jackson who had been asked by the Bell Telephone company to learn whether the Bell Telephone Company's schedule plan to give female operators the maximum number of Sundays off and still retain female operators for Sunday work would be legal.

The opinion stated that it would, provided that the girls should be given another day in the week off and if other stipulations of the law were adhered to

WELL-KNOW EYE SPECIALISTS TO OPEN BRANCH OFFICE

Woodward & McPherson. the druggists of Clearfield have completed arrangements with one of the best known optical concerns in the state to open a branch office at their drug store starting Monday, August 16 for one week.

BORO GIVES PARK AND LOT AT RIVER TO SCHOOL BOARD

Specify Conditions For Roadway And Wish Directors to Record Desire for Wall

Whitmer Property Granted to School to Make Grounds of it if Disposed—Estimtae on Abutment for River Front Persented by Borough Engineer.

At a joint meeting of the council and the school board last evening the matter of the granting of the borough land along the river front at the Reed lots was definitely settled. The borough gives the land to the school board with the provisions that a road can be opened up along the river through the land at any time that it may be necessary, and also express the desire that the present board make a record that it is the sense of all the members of the council that a wall should be built along the property facing the river at some future time, and that it is the wish of the present board that that wall be built when financial difficulties are overcome.

The borough also grants to the school board that piece of land which is known at Whitmer park if the school board desires to take it and make it a part of the school grounds. Witmer park was dedicated to the public use in 1804 by Abraham Whitmer when the town was laid out by a commission.

In reference to the building of the proposed wall along the river front a report from the borough engineer was heard by the two boards last night. To build a wall along the entire front from the place where the present wall ends would cost approximately $100,000 and to build the 180 feet of wall which would be on the borough land which was granted to the school would cost, according to the engineer's figure approximately $4000. It is doubtful in the opinion of both bodies if such a wall will be built within the near future.

GREAT FAREWELL TO 17 ITALIANS OFF FOR FRONT

Party With Banjoes and Guitars Sing Farewell Songs to Loved Ones--Stirring Battle Songs

Will Join 83 More at Altoona and Sail on Steamer Duca di Agosta—Bunch Worker at Sewer Pipe Plant and No. 3 Brick Yards.

More Italians left this morning for the battle front in their mother country. There were seventeen in the bunch that left on the 8:14 morning train. They will be joined at Altoona, where they go first to get their credentials, by 83 more Italians from other parts of the state.

The party was cheered and waved goodbye to by a large gathering of friends and relatives. The Italians jumped into the cars and opened the windows and then with their guitars and mandolins played and sang farewell songs to their relatives and their sweethearts.

Some of the music sounded plaintive, some melancholy, some sad, but mingled with the sorrowful tunes was the stirring twang of a banjo in some memorable battle song, or the drowsey note of a guitar in some love-laden melody. It was a grand farewell.

The party will sail on the steamship Duca di Agosto. They were Salvodori Vozzola, Frank Zitarelli, Antoni Prestilli, Mario Mottolo, Antonio Spingola, Joseph Molica, Jovanni Lastarza, Daniel Tostarzi, Frank Molica, Joseph Alexander ,Mike Castellucci, Philip Accordini, adn five others. They were formerly employeed at the sewer pipe works or the extra shift and at No. 3 brick yard.

SEVEN PENSY TRACK MEN KILLED THIS A. M.

Passenger Train Demolishes Hand Car on Main Line

(By United Press)

Altoona, August 13.—Seven track men on the Middle Division of the Pennsylvania railroad were killed near Mt. Union today when a passenger train running at high speed wrecked a hand car. The engineer of the passenger train was seriously injured. He was taken to the Blair hospital at Huntingdon.

IMMENSE CROWDS FROM CLEARFIELD LINE AT LAKEMONT

Large Special Train Leaving In Morning Packed Before Reaching Woodland

23 Coaches Used in Bringing Throngs Back in Evening—Two Specials of Nine Coaches Each Beside Regular Train

Although yesterday was an unfavorable day for an excursion the people from Clearfield and vicinity did not seem to care about the bad weather as the excursion train which ran to Lakemont along the Clearfield line had more than it could carry.

The excursion train started from Grampian yesterday morning with enough cars to comfortably accomodate the crowd that they expected would go on the excursion, with the intentions of picking up extra coaches along the way as they were needed, but when the train stopped at the depot in Clearfield they found that they only had a sample of the train that would be necessary to accomodate the crowd that was already present.

When the excursion train reached Woodland it was impossible for any more passengers to be taken on as the train has been crowded to its full capacity between that place and Grampian. The regular morning passenger bound for Tyrone was then converted into an excursion train to pick up the rest of th eexcursionists from Woodland to Tyrone.

In the evening it required two special trains the first one of which was composed of nine coaches and two engines and the second of ten coaches and two engines to accomodate the crowds returning, in addition to the regular train which contained four coaches. All the returning trains arrived in Clearfield between 10:30 and 11:15 o'clock.

VILLA TO QUIT?

Washington, August 13.—Through Diaz Lombardo, his foreign minister, General Villa announced his willingness today to eliminate himself from Mexican politics, but he so qualified his offer with a derision of the scientificos that many officials here believe he had practically nullified it.

Explosion Laid at Door of Opponent To Export of Arms

Recent Blowing Up of Westinghouse Plant at Turtle Creek Said to Be Work of a Fanatic

DETROIT MAN CONVICTED OF DYNAMITING

(By United Press)

Pittsburg, August 13.—Written evidence that the explosion at the Turtle Creek plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company which killed two men and injured several others may have been caused by a person or persons opposed to the manufacture of munitions for the allies, was placed in the hands of county officers today by the Pittsburg Press.

It was in the form of a letter to the Press written several days ago and signed, "Yours truly, Guess it." The letter stated that the plant would be blown up if the manufacture of munitions for shipment abroad continued. W. G. Taylor, manager at the works where the explosion occurred, admitted that it has been so far impossible to account for the escape of gas from the annealing furnace which blew up. He intimated that investigations were being made to find out if the gas was purposely put into the furnace.

Windsor, Ont., William Lefler, Detroit, convicted of complicity in the dynamiting of a large overall plant in Walkerville, a suburb, was today sentenced by Judge Dromgole to serve ten years in the Kingston penitentiary. Lefler broke down completely while making his statement to the court just before sentence was pronounced. Tearfully he called on God as witness that he was guilty of no wrong intent and that he had merely been a dupe of Albert Kaiser, a wealthy German.

REUNION OF DAVIS FAMILY HELD AT THE KNOB FARM

Six of Seven Living Children And 17 of 23 Grandchildren Present

Old-Fashioned Picnic Dinner Served —Amused With Old-Time Games, Singing, Baseball, Etc.—Children for Health of Old Folks.

The second annual reunion of the Davis family was held at the Knob farm, home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Davis, on August 11. Six of the seven living children were present: W. and E. C. of Clearfield; H. G. Ramey; N. T. of St. Marys; Mrs. B. Albert, of Woodland; and V. E. lives on the homestead. Seventeen of the twenty-three grandchildren were present and six of the nine great grandchildren. In the past year there have been no deaths in the family, two births. Between the oldest and the youngest member of the family there is a period of more than seventy-seven years. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been married fifty-four years next September, and have lived on the farm all their lives.

The farm is situated on the hill which is the highest point in this section of the country, and from which a remarkable view of the surrounding country can be had.

A real good old-fashioned picnic dinner of spring chicken, ham, cheese, home-cured ham, and a host of other farm products was served.

After the dinner several amusements, such as old-time games, singing, recitations, quoits and baseball were indulged in until late in the afternoon, when the festivities came to a close and the boys and girls went back to their tasks richer by a day of good fellowship and wishing that the old folks would be spared to welcome them back home for many a year to come.

TO ATTEND RACES

James Mahaffey left for Wilkes-Barre, N. Y. this morning with his horse "Harvertes Queen" where he will attend the races at the old mining city.

A Stroll With Margarette Mason And Some Comments on Fashions

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for the United Press)

Betty bought a box of beads
A bead trimmed frock to try
She now has lots of beads on hand
Likewise a beady eye.

New York, Aug. 13.—The latest fashionable bag of tricks is a bag of beads. Marie Lanvin is the Parisian couturiere who has spilled the beads and scattered them recklessly all over the fall frocks, frills and furbelows. Think what a beautiful consistency it only beer had been the designer to put the bead on. But Marie beat him to the bead and now everything is headed to beat the band the beaded band of course, which has been with us for many seasons.

In the windows of two of the smartest hat shops on Fifth avenue every single one of the new Fall models had a garnishment of beads as its sole adornment. The big broad flat black velvet shapes have a flat bead trimming either set on or else beaded right on the hat surface itself. In the latter class is a sprawling sort of an octopus design done in a single row of steel beads. Another has a tiny humming bird of feathers perched on a nest shaped medallion or varigated bead eggs. Just as a suggestion maybe this eggy idea it seems to me a cunning little gold fish nesting on a bunch of bead roe could be a heap more realistic and effectively reproduced in beadwork. Be that as it may single flat blossoms of beadwork cling limpet-like to the broad black velvet brims. On the jaunty little turban shapes bristling batons of beads stick out like the quills upon fretful porcupine. Beaded tassels also dangle dangerously, promising that many an eye this Fall though not now beady will be beaded.

The beadwork designs on hte Fall suits and gowns are wonderfully alluring. Floral and conventional motifs are picked out in the most exquisite of beaded colorings and just a touch is used on a girule, a sleeve or a bodice with an effective and telling artistry. On many of the pastel tinted frocks that promise to lead the mode this Autumn a vivid splash of colorful beadwork, a single glowing scarlet flower, an orange or emerald fruit at the shoulder, the throat or the waist line adds just the needful beadful touch.

Beaded bags are in again with a vengeance not the silk bags with bead trimmings that have dangled from all the best arms this summer but the real old fashioned all-over beaded bags with their quaint pink and yellow garlands on bright green and blue back grounds. Black beaded designs on gold and vice versa play a big part in the present day old-fashioned bead bags and black and green is another smart combination.

Apropos of the bag subject quite the baggiest bags to brag of are the new ruffled silk bags that are quite as befrilled and beflounced as are the skirts of the moment. They are of black faille, moire or taffeta. They fasten with silver clasps and hang on plain wrist straps of the silk. Below the chased silver clasp, however, their chaste simplicity ends in a frivolous fall of flounces two and three tiers deep. Some of the ruffles are pleted, some shirred, and some corded but one and all they boast such a bouffant appearance as to make ever a full purse even though it be empty.

Though you have an empty purse and an empty pate still you need not despair to stop your empty pate you can flaunt one of the adorable between season hats of white plush. With it's soft floppy plush brim and its huge Alabastian bow of white silk as a trimming it looks for all the world like a big froth of whipped cream on a peach. It is the sartorial white hope of the moment and has knocked out its fragile tulle and chiffon rivals in the first round. Just push your head into a plush hat and you are bound to be in soft for the rest of the season.

COLONIAL COTTAGE DESIGN NO. D-1331

The illustration above has been selected as an artistic example of a modernized Dutch Colonial Cottage. The fresh white of the delicately detailed entrance and the paling of the uncovered porch to either side produce an effective contrast against the warm tones of the shingled side walls. Flowers, in the tubs surmounting the brick porch posts, furnish another bit of contrast and further add to the air of hospitality and refinement of which one is conscious on approaching this delightful home.

Below are suggested floor plans in harmony with such an elevation. All modern requirements are provided for and the rooms are of generous size. The reception hall will make a most hospitable entry with the broad stairway ascending at the rear and the glass doors opening into adjoining living and dining rooms. A door at the rear gives direct access to the kitchen and a small closet at the side is convenient for storm coats and umbrellas. The kitchen has service way to the dining room through a commodious pantry, and refrigerator space is provided in the rear entry. A rear stair, under which is a roomy pot closet, leads to the landing on the main flight. The living room, the full depth of house, is particularly attractive. A cheery fireplace is built in at the side, and cozy seats recessed at either end add considerable interest to the room.

The chambers on the second floor are of good proportions and provided with generous closet room. Good storage space is had in the attic reached through a scuttle in the half ceiling.

The cost of this charming home is estimated at $3,200, exclusive of heating, plumbing, electric work, and decorations. Price of plans and specifications, $30.

RUSSEL KELLY

New York Boy in Foreign Legion Writes of Europe Battlefields

New York August 13.—When Russel Kelly, 22 year old son of a New York attorney and for a while a student at the Virginia Military Academy got the war fever last fall, he took a job on a cattle boat, worked his way to Bordeaux and enlisted in the famous French Foreign legion.

In recent letters home he tells of taking part in the terrific fighting at La Targette, near Souchez and not far from the famous Labyrinth. His company was badly cut up, but he escaped with a bad bruise on the forehead coused by the vacuum of a great shell which passed a few inches from his head.

Under date of May 29, he writes: "After our attack of May 9-10 we went to the rear about ten miles from the frant, and were reorganized. The general reviewed us and distributed five, military medals. . . .

"We advance by sections: When the order comes we jump up, and carrying a dirt sack in front of us as a shield run about 10 feet, and it's about Ty Cobb sliding into 2nd base. It isn't a circumstance to the way we hit the grit, and what a strain on the nerves, waiting for our turn to advance again, fellows all around being hit. In a couple of cases I have seen men lifted from the ground so full were they hit . . . ."

Mr. Keily then decribes trench digging in which his regiment worked every night fro msix p. m. until 4 a. m. walking nine miles to the front and nine miles back again after finishing the digging.

"There is not much left of this regiment since May 9; the company at present has fiftyfive men out of a full company of 250.

"We are all in the best of health and getting plenty to eat. We are unanimous in wishing for the war to end soon. Take it from me, those who clamor for war the most in the States are those who know nothing about it. War is an asstiine waste, and I take off my hat to Wilson and his levelheadedness."

TRAPSHOOTING OLD SPORT

English Live Bird Shooting Prototype of American Game.

By Albert P. Taylor.

As far back as 1793 the Sporting Magazine, of London, England, mentioned pigeon-shooting, which was the forerunner of modern trapshooting, and it was in England that trapshooting first became a recognized sport. However, considerable difference exists between the sport in its infant stages and the present.

Englishmen wanted to get in form for the contest now on with the team across the channel, so they started trapshooting. At that time live birds were used—the blue rock pigeon—and not our river slit and tar "pigeon." Likewise the trap of those days was quite different from the ones Henderson, Richardson, Lyon, Newcomb and others are in the habit of facing. It consisted of a box 8x12 inches, sunk level with the ground, having a sliding lid, which was pulled off the box by means of a string running back to the trapper. Of course the perriwigged gentlemen of that early day with their flintlocks couldn't do much with our "humdingers," but nevertheless we have them to thank for actually starting this great sport.

The first attempt at trapshooting in this country took place in Cincinnati in 1831. Wild pigeons served as targets until the 90 and 95 per cent class became so large they were forced to substitute quail. You "gun bugs" of today, think of shooting at quail with a muzzle-loader!

It is impossible to determine just when inanimate targets came into use. The earliest account on record is that of shooting at glass balls down at Boston, in 1866. The trap used was an imported affair from England and far from satisfactory, so an American got busy and made a trap that would send these glass orbs through space in a more Yankeelike manner. Thereafter, for twenty years, the glass industry was overwhelmed and "barefoot Johnny" steered clear of trapshooting grounds.

Improvements of balls and traps were produced in considerable numbers until 1880, when it came due for Cincinnati to again figure in the formative stages of "The Sport Alluring." This time to serve as the home of George Ligowsky, who invented real clay pigeons and a trap to spring them, of which our modern "saucers" and traps are the lineal descendants. The subsequent history of this fascinating sport, with its thousands of devotees all over our own land and in foreign countries (though in the latter, alas, they are reverting to primitive targets), is being recorded in the columns of the sporting pages of the press.

WHY SHOOTING APPEALS

The Real Man is a Boy at Heart

To most questions there is a general or popular answer that is good enough for the most of us. Assuming it to be true, no valuable purpose could be served by going into a highbrow analysis of the psychology of trapshooting with theories about a hunting instinct," a "destructive instinct" and what not.

The general answer to the question "why does trapshooting appeal?" is double-barreled and is based on fact rather than theories—every red-blooded American likes a gun, and he would rather play a game than watch others play it.

The first section of this answer is proved by the part the gun has played in every epoch of our national life from pioneer days to now. To digress for a moment—and while maintaining a position of strict neutrality—it is safe to say that the wholesome respect which Europe has for our ability to shoot straight, as proved on several occasions, has been a big element in our not becoming involved in the present unpleasantness.

That the gun's hold on us is greater than ever is shown by the fact that there are more than 10,000,000 shotguns in the United States, to say nothing of rifles, revolvers, pistols and automatics.

The second part of the answer is proved by the tremendous growth of outdoor sports in general and trapshooting in particular. During 1914 more than one thousand new trapshooting clubs sprung up, while the membership of clubs already in existence increased about 50 per cent. on the average.

As to the fascination of trapshooting—where is the boy who will not take a pot shot with stone, snow ball, toy gun, sling shot or spitball pipe at a moving object? And the real man—the fellow who loves the great outdoors—is very much of a boy at heart when he can slip away from business for a half day.

It is this "boy" in the man that makes irresistible the desire to blaze away at the little saucer-shaped discs, sprung from the traps at a speed that tantalizes the shooter who does not think and act like the proverbial "greased lightning."

To sum up, trapshooting includes all the elements that go to make up the ideal American sport, being a game for all ages and both sexes; it is competitive; it depends in the greater degree on skill, yet has breaks of luck; it provides both exercise and recreation; it is clean, fair and square and while a [illegible] for gentlemen, using the term in its broad sense, it is democratic in the greatest degree.
